- ii) Where the employer believes that it may be necessary to implement a redundancy, the employer is to immediately notify the affected employee(s) and their representative(s) and commence a process of consultation.

b) Redeployment and retraining

If a redundancy is likely to occur –

- i) The employer will actively explore all internal redeployment opportunities for employee's surplus to requirements;
- ii) Employees seeking redeployment may be retrained for other, available positions on condition that the employees concerned can demonstrate that they possess the necessary capacity for those positions;

- i) Before a redundancy is affected, the employer is in the first instance to seek expressions of interest in a voluntary redundancy package from all employees.

PROVIDED THAT the employer is only required to seek such expressions of interest from employees employed at the same classification level and at the same worksite in which the redundancy is being affected.

- ii) In assessing expressions of interest for voluntary redundancy the employer will take into account the skill and operational requirements of the facility.

- iii) Wherever reasonably practicable involuntary redundancies will only be effected if there are no, or insufficient, volunteers for a voluntary redundancy package after expressions of interest have been sought and assessed from existing employees in accordance with sub clauses (d)(i) and (d)(ii).
 - iv) The employer is to consult with the employee(s) and their representative(s) if intending to proceed with an involuntary redundancy after declining an expression of interest for voluntary redundancy.

The intention is to ensure that the employee can make necessary communications in the case of emergency.

40. DEALING WITH DISPUTES

In the event of a dispute in relation to a matter arising under this agreement and/or the National Employment Standards, in the first instance the parties will attempt to resolve the matter at the workplace by discussions between the employee or employees concerned and the relevant supervisor and, if such discussions do not resolve the dispute, by discussions between the employee or employees concerned and more senior levels of management as appropriate.

A party to the dispute may appoint another person, organisation or association to accompany or represent them in relation to the dispute.

If a dispute in relation to a matter arising under the agreement is unable to be resolved at the workplace, and all agreed steps for resolving it have been taken, the dispute may be referred to the Fair Work Commission (FWC) for resolution by mediation and/or conciliation and, where the matter in dispute remains unresolved, arbitration. If arbitration is necessary FWC may exercise the procedural powers in relation to hearings, witnesses, evidence and submissions which are necessary to make the arbitration.

It is a term of this agreement that while the dispute resolution procedure is being conducted work shall continue normally unless an employee has a reasonable concern about an imminent risk to his or her health or safety.

The decision of FWC will bind the parties, subject to either party exercising a right of appeal against the decision to a Full Bench.

For the avoidance of doubt, employee grievances are included in the matters to be dealt with in accordance with the dispute resolution procedure of the Agreement.
