Public Sector
Award Minium Wages

The Australian Nursing and Midwifery Federation Tasmanian Branch (ANMF) is listed to appear before the Tasmanian Industrial Commission (TIC) with other Unions at 1200hrs on Monday 23 November to hear submissions in relation to an application made by the Tasmanian Trades and Labour Council (TTLC) to vary Public Sector Awards for minimum wages and supported wages.

The TTLC submitted that "this year's increase is necessary, but with inflation running at a similar rate, this is largely about keeping up with rising costs, not delivering a meaningful improvement in workers' living standards."

How this Affects Nurses & Midwives:

Changes proposed to the Nurses & Midwives (TSS) Award include that the Tasmanian Minimum wage is $1,004.90 per week operative from 1 August 2026 (Part III Clause 11. Tasmanian Minimum Wage).

For the Health and Human Services (TSS) Award, the variations include:

- Part II Clause 8(b) Supported wage Rates: Provided that the minimum amount payable must be not less than $113 per week.
- Part II Clause 8(h)(iii) The minimum amount payable to the employee during the trial period must be no less than $113 per week.
- Part II Clause 15. Tasmanian Minimum Wage is $1004.90 per week operative from 1 August 2026.

Tasmanian State Service National Training Wage Award amounts were increased too.

The ANMF will consent to the variation of these Awards. If you have any questions, feel free to reach out to the ANMF's Member Support Team.

The ANMF Tasmanian Branch is 8000 plus members strong! Supporting nurses, midwives, and care workers as the only union in Tasmania employing nurses, midwives and care workers to represent members.
